Another fascinating fact about the Crown Jewels is that they are not kept in a vault as one might expect. Instead, they are displayed in the Jewel House at the Tower of London, where visitors can marvel at their splendor.

Behind the Gates of Buckingham Palace

As the iconic residence of the British monarch, Buckingham Palace is shrouded in an aura of grandeur and mystery. But what goes on behind its imposing gates?

One surprising fact about Buckingham Palace is that it is not actually owned by the Queen. Rather, it is owned by the Crown, which is a public entity. The Queen is granted a 99-year lease on the palace, and she pays a rent of £80,000 per year.

Another intriguing fact is that Buckingham Palace has its own post office. The palace post office handles all the mail for the royal family and the palace staff.

Windsor Castle: A Royal Retreat

Just a short drive from London, Windsor Castle is a stunning architectural masterpiece that has been the residence of British monarchs for over 900 years. It is one of the oldest and largest inhabited castles in the world.

What you may not know about Windsor Castle is that it has its own royal theater. The Royal Windsor Theatre, which was built in 1817, hosts a variety of performances throughout the year.

Another interesting fact about Windsor Castle is that it has its own private chapel. The St. George's Chapel is a beautiful Gothic church that has been used for royal weddings and funerals.

Royal Weddings: A Fairytale Extravaganza

Royal weddings are always a grand affair, and they are watched by millions of people around the world. But what goes on behind the scenes of these lavish events?

One surprising fact about royal weddings is that they are not always paid for by the taxpayer. In fact, the royal family often pays for the majority of the wedding expenses.

Another interesting fact is that royal weddings are not always held in the same place. In recent years, royal weddings have been held in Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, and Windsor Castle.

The Hobbies of the Royal Family

It may surprise you to learn that the royal family have a variety of hobbies, just like ordinary people.

Queen Elizabeth II is an avid horsewoman, and she has owned over 200 horses throughout her lifetime. Prince Charles is a passionate gardener, and he has created several gardens at his home in Highgrove House.

Prince William is a keen polo player, and Prince Harry is a talented rugby player. The Duchess of Cambridge is a talented photographer, and she has taken many official photographs of her family.

These are just a few of the surprising and fascinating facts about royal Britain. The monarchy is a complex and fascinating institution, and there is always something new to learn about it.
