Company Profiles

Each of the four companies featured in Theatre in Process has a unique approach to creating theatre. The Actors Touring Company is known for its commitment to touring work to regional theaters throughout the UK. The Royal Shakespeare Company is one of the world's leading classical theatre companies, with a reputation for producing high-quality productions of Shakespeare's plays.

The Donmar Warehouse is a small, off-West End theater that has become known for its innovative productions of new plays and musicals. The Young Vic is a youth theater company that has produced some of the most exciting and challenging work in recent years.

Production Case Studies

The production case studies in Theatre in Process provide a detailed look at the development of each production, from the initial concept to the final performance. The interviews with the creative team members offer insights into the artistic choices that were made, the challenges that were faced, and the lessons that were learned.

The production of The Glass Menagerie by the Actors Touring Company was a particular challenge, as the company had to adapt the play to a touring format. The Royal Shakespeare Company's production of King Lear was a major undertaking, with a cast of over 20 actors and a complex set design.

The Donmar Warehouse's production of The Wild Party was a musical adaptation of the 1928 poem by Joseph Moncure March. The Young Vic's production of The Scottsboro Boys was a musical that told the true story of nine black teenagers who were falsely accused of raping two white women in 1931.

Theatre in Process is an essential resource for anyone interested in the creative process of theatre. The book provides a unique insight into the challenges and rewards of creating new work for the stage, and it is illustrated with stunning production photographs, sketches, and other ephemera.

Theatre in Process is a must-read for theatre students, practitioners, and anyone who loves the art form.
