With so much to see and do, it can be difficult to know where to start. Here is a suggested itinerary for a three-day city break to Barcelona:

Day 1

*

Start your day with a visit to the Sagrada Familia, one of Barcelona's most iconic landmarks. This stunning basilica is Antoni Gaudí's unfinished masterpiece and is a must-see for any visitor to the city.

*

After visiting the Sagrada Familia, take a walk down Las Ramblas, a famous pedestrian street lined with shops, restaurants and cafes. Las Ramblas is a great place to people-watch and soak up the city's atmosphere.

*

In the afternoon, visit the Gothic Quarter, Barcelona's historic center. The Gothic Quarter is home to a labyrinth of narrow streets, charming squares and historic buildings. Be sure to visit the Barcelona Cathedral and the Palau de la Generalitat, the seat of the Catalan government.

*

End your day with a relaxing walk along the Barceloneta Beach, one of Barcelona's most popular beaches. Enjoy the sunset and the views of the Mediterranean Sea.

Day 2

*

Start your day with a visit to the Park Güell, another of Gaudí's masterpieces. This whimsical park is home to colorful mosaics, gingerbread-like houses and stunning views of the city.

*

After visiting Park Güell, take a walk down Passeig de Gràcia, one of Barcelona's most famous boulevards. Passeig de Gràcia is lined with designer shops, luxury hotels and beautiful architecture. Be sure to stop by the Casa Batlló and the Casa Milà, two of Gaudí's most famous buildings.

*

In the afternoon, visit the Barcelona Museum of Contemporary Art (MACBA). MACBA is home to a collection of contemporary art from around the world. After visiting MACBA, take a walk through the El Raval neighborhood, one of Barcelona's most vibrant and multicultural neighborhoods.

*

End your day with a delicious dinner at one of Barcelona's many restaurants. Barcelona is known for its seafood, tapas and paella.

Day 3

*

Start your day with a visit to the Camp Nou, the home stadium of FC Barcelona. Camp Nou is one of the largest soccer stadiums in the world and is a must-see for any soccer fan.

*

After visiting Camp Nou, take a walk through the Montjuïc neighborhood. Montjuïc is home to a number of museums, parks and gardens. Be sure to visit the Montjuïc Castle, which offers stunning views of the city.

*

In the afternoon, visit the Picasso Museum. The Picasso Museum houses a collection of over 4,000 works by Pablo Picasso. After visiting the Picasso Museum, take a walk through the La Ribera neighborhood, one of Barcelona's oldest and most charming neighborhoods.

*

End your day with a relaxing walk along the Port Vell, Barcelona's old harbor. Enjoy the sunset and the views of the Mediterranean Sea.

This is just a suggested itinerary for a three-day city break to Barcelona. There are many other things to see and do in the city, so be sure to tailor your itinerary to your own interests.

No matter what you choose to do, you're sure to have a wonderful time in Barcelona. The city is full of culture, history and beauty, and there's something for everyone to enjoy.

Additional Tips for Planning Your City Break to Barcelona

*

Barcelona is a popular tourist destination, so it's important to book your accommodation and tours in advance, especially if you're traveling during peak season.

*
